We have no doubt that the future of all traditional assets and capital markets more broadly is digital. The proof of concept for and segue into that digitisation is crypto. As regulatory frameworks are established around the world, so they will facilitate further growth of digital assets and provide the gateways to institutional capital. There is so much opportunity that lies ahead for LMAX Digital and the clients that rely on our robust technology and institutional-grade liquidity.”

LMAX Digital has this week received industry recognition for its market leadership and innovation, having been awarded “Best Crypto Trading Platform” by leading industry publication, Financial News in its Excellence in Trading & Tech Awards 2023. The awards, which are voted on by a panel of independent judges and senior editorial staff, celebrate the companies and individuals that stand out for the strength of their businesses in Continental Europe and the United Kingdom.

Alongside this award, Financial News also recognised LMAX Digital Managing Director, Jenna Wright, as one of the Twenty Most Influential Women in Crypto 2023, who added:

“With our history in FX, we’re unique in being translators of TradFi to DeFi through our crypto currency offering. This has proven to be immensely valuable for institutions in helping to unlock capital and explore greater electrification, democratisation and efficiency in the capital markets of the future. The market dynamics have changed significantly in the past year and despite a challenging environment, we’re having very sophisticated conversations about connectivity, low-latency infrastructure and high throughput. This represents positive progression and signifies that this asset class is maturing, encouraging established institutions into the market, driving further adoption.”

Launched to exclusively offer trading to institutional market participants, LMAX Digital has become the leading institutional spot exchange for crypto currencies and today works with the largest global institutions trading crypto currencies in the US, Europe and Asia.
