

LMAX Digital volumes are added to the TradeBlock platform

LMAX Digital becomes the first institutional exchange to provide data to TradeBlock

London, 5 December 2019 – LMAX Digital, the leading institutional spot crypto currency exchange and part of the LMAX Exchange Group, announced that it has started providing real time trading volumes to TradeBlock, the world's leading provider of institutional trading tools for digital currencies. LMAX Digital will become the first institutional exchange to provide trading data to TradeBlock.

Jenna Wright, Head of LMAX Digital, commented: “We are very pleased to be partnering with TradeBlock in the provision of LMAX Digital real time trading volumes to its respected institutional analytics platform. LMAX Digital’s status as the premier institutional crypto exchange will enhance the quality of market information available to investors around the world and provide a credible overview of the spot digital currency market.”

Nitai Bran, CEO of TradeBlock, commented on the integration: “As the digital currency market continues to evolve, execution venues that publish real time spot trading volumes and offer proven, robust trading technology to institutional market participants will be critical to its sustained growth. LMAX Digital’s high-performance infrastructure is a welcome addition to the space and a perfect fit for TradeBlock’s suite of industry-standard data and index offerings.”
